8:00 Filming the LGBTQ Movement in Jamaica:
Activist Anthropology and Partnerships
By Diana J. Fox, PhD

Diana will be screening the new documentary, Many Loves, One Heart: Stories of Courage and Resilience. She will discuss the process of filming including ethical issues that emerged and what has happened with the movement since the film was released. She states “MANY LOVES, ONE HEART tells the story of the nascent LGBTQ movement in Jamaica by highlighting courageous members of the community and their allies, who have committed their lives to the Jamaican struggle for LGBTQ rights. Jamaica has frequently been cited for egregious homophobic violence by international press and human rights organizations. Challenging this often one-sided depiction, MANY LOVES, ONE HEART presents brave Jamaicans who are seeking to transform their island into a space of inclusivity where they can love freely. The documentary shares this homegrown Jamaican movement, celebrates their emerging victories and is an important resource for building global awareness of transnational human rights.”

Diana Fox is a cultural and applied anthropologist, scholar-activist, and documentary film producer. Her work has focused on the Anglophone Caribbean, particularly Jamaica and Trinidad & Tobago where she researches issues of gender and sexual diversity, women's social movement activism for ecological sustainability, women's human rights and transnational feminisms. In recent years she has extended her research on women's issues into SE Asia, particularly Sri Lanka & Nepal. She serves on a number of boards and committees including the Sexualities Working Group of the Caribbean Studies Association (CSA), the international advisory board of the Fondes Amandes Community Reforestation Project (FACRP) in Trinidad and Tobago; the board of Friends of ADWAN (Association of Dalit Women's Advancement Nepal) and is the Founder and Editor of the open access, online Journal of International Women's Studies. She is the recipient of four Fulbright scholarships as well as other grants and awards, has published a number of books and articles, and is a frequent speaker at conferences, and other public venues.
